Sir

I shall feel obliged if you will favour me with a short account of your life in order that it may be inserted in the Fifteenth Edition of "Men and Women of the Time", which Messrs. George Routledge and Sons intend to publish in the autumn of this year.

The account, which ought to be as concise as possible, should include statements bearing upon the following points:—

1. Date and place of birth, parentage, places of education, degree or title in full (if any), etc.
2. List and dates of principal appointments (if any).
3. Names and dates of published works.
4. A summary of any other claims to distinction.
5. Your permanent address or addresses.

It is requested that the article may not exceed Five Hundred Words, and you will oblige me by sending it within a week.

I have the honour to be, Sir,
Your obedient servant

MEN AND WOMEN OF THE TIME

A Dictionary of Contemporaries.

FIFTEENTH EDITION.

REVISED AND BROUGHT DOWN TO THE PRESENT TIME.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS ON THE FOURTEENTH EDITION.

"On the whole the book maintains its reputation, and will be quoted quite as much as formerly."—Daily Chronicle.

"The new Editor has improved the book."—Athenæum.

"The Editor is to be complimented on the thoroughness of his new issue. A few omissions are not to be set against the general excellence of this standard work of reference, which, being without an equal, is an indispensable part of every library which has any pretensions to completeness. The classified index of names is a new feature of the dictionary which has an obvious value."—Sunday Times.

"The work has been kept carefully up to date."—Daily Telegraph.

"I know the difficulties which encompass the compilation of that popular volume."—Lord Rosebery's speech at the Royal Academy banquet.

"The classified index, now for the first time introduced, is a useful feature."

"Another useful feature is a key to those assumed names which are often so extremely puzzling."—Morning Post.
